

INSTANCE EVENTS

Events fired on IInstance (or its derivatives) pass an event object as a parameter to the handler function, and this event object has the following standard properties. Each type of event may add other properties - refer to the documentation for each event to identify any further properties that are available.

Standard instance event properties

instance

A reference to the IInstance (or derivative) which fired the event.

You are here:

Search this manual:

Community Help

Contact Us

This manual entry was last updated on 14 Dec, 2021 at 16:10